THE TWENTY-EIGHTH REPORT

OF THE

DEPUTY KEEPER OF THE PUBLIC RECORDS AND KEEPER OF THE STATE PAPERS

IN IRELAND.

TO THE RIGHT HONORABLE EARL CADOGAN, K.G.,

LORD LIEUTENANT-GENERAL AND GENERAL GOVERNOR OF IRELAND.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY.

1. Your Excellency, with the advice of the Privy Council, issued an Order in Council dated the 17th January, 1895, directing the Records of the Clerks of the Crown and Peace for the County of Westmeath, in accordance with the provisions of the 5th Section of the Public Records (Ireland) Act (1867), to be placed under the superintendence of the Master of the Rolls, and a schedule of such of them as have been transferred to this Department will be found at paragraph 85.

2. The attention of the Department has been called to the fact that a number of Crown Records, viz.:—Marriage Licence and other Bonds of the late Consistorial Court of the Diocese of Killaloe, were in possession of the Trustees of the British Museum, having been purchased by them on the 12th November, 1881. These Records must have been at one time or another unlawfully abstracted from the custody of the Registrar of the Diocese, as in a return of the Records of the Diocese made to the late Record Commissioner in 1811 by the Rev. Richard Martin, then Registrar of Killaloe and Kilfenora, though not expressly mentioned, they would appear to have been included. Warrants for the transfer of the Records of this Diocese have been issued by the Master of the Rolls. A letter was written to the Trustees pointing out that the custody of these Records, belonging as they do to the late Established Church of Ireland, is committed to the Master of the Rolls under the Public Records (Ireland) Act, 1867 (30 and 31 Vic., cap. 70), and that other Records of the Diocese of Killaloe, and of the other dioceses of the late Established Church, had been deposited here in pursuance of that Act, and asking what objection, if any, they would have to the transfer of these Records here. A reply was received that they did not propose to transfer to this Department the Records referred to. In addition to these Marriage Licence Bonds the Museum became possessed at the same time of two volumes of Consistory Court Papers of the same Diocese, including Citations, Sentences, Petitions, Inventories, &c., 1671–1824.

3. The Census returns of 1813, 1821, 1831-4, 1841, and 1851, are of Record here transferred at different times from their various places of original deposit. Their accessibility to the public has proved of incalculable value in enquiries concerning title and pedigree and the tracing of next-of-kin and heirs-at-law. This is a use of them for which they were not originally provided, but as often happens, the secondary use has proved of great importance and in quite a different direction to what the primary intention ever contemplated, and the present and future generations will find them increase in value as time goes on. It will be a loss in the future should the Census papers of 1881 and 1891 and the following years be destroyed, as the papers of 1861 and 1871 have been. Some arrangement might be come to by which they might be made available to the public, say twenty years after the making of them.

4. The books and documents of the Nonconformist French Huguenot Churches of Lucy-lane, Wood-street, and Peter-street, have been deposited here under the 16th section of the Public Records (Ireland) Act, by the Official Assignee of the Court of Bankruptcy, acting under an order of the judge, dated 29th November, 1895. They include Registers of Marriages, Baptisms, and Burials of the French Huguenot Church of Golblac-lane from 1701 to 1732 (Golblac-lane does not now appear amongst the Dublin streets, nor has a reference to it been found to indicate its locality, it is suggested that it was off Lucy-lane or was an alias for it), and of Burials from 1771 to 1887. The Registers of the Marriages and Baptisms between these latter dates are unaccounted for; but the following memorandum by the Pastor, in the existing Register explains the void from 1732 to 1771:—

"In the night between the 16th and 17th of January, 1771, some rogues broke open the Vestry room of the French Church, in Peter-street, in the city of Dublin, with an intent, as it is supposed, to steal the Communion Plate which they imagined was kept there, but being disappointed, they vented their rage upon some of the Church books which were then there and burnt the same. Among these books was unfortunately the Register of the Marriages, Christenings, and Burials belonging to that church and Lucy-lane which at that time formed but one congregation.

"Quod attestor, J. SUBREMONT,
Minister of the French Church of Peter's-street."

A schedule of the documents transferred will be found at paragraph 88.

State Paper Office.

5. There were no Papers or Indices received from the Chief Secretary's Office, during the past year.

6. The searches for Government numbered 237.

7. Copies of fifty-four Proclamations relating to Sessions Towns and Districts were prepared for the Editor of "Statutory Rules and Orders," by direction of Her Majesty's Treasury, and spare Copies of seventy-three Proclamations sent for his use.

8. Progress has been made with an Index, with brief summary of contents, of the Papers in cartons Nos. 620/15 to 620/23 covering the period 1780 to 1796. These form portion of the series referred to in the 9th Report of the Keeper of the State Papers as having been taken from "two large boxes."

9. The greater part of the Records transferred to the Public Record Office in the year 1895 was obtained from a large miscellaneous collection in the North recess of the lowest Record room of the Tower. They were tied up in some sixty large brown paper parcels, for the most part labelled "Statistical Survey" or "Population of Ireland." With the exception of three or four of the bundles, all were without arrangement. Vide par. 68.

10. This collection seems to have consisted of the general papers which remained in the office presses and drawers at the dissolution of the Record Commission. They included unarranged correspondence and uncompleted work of the Commission, and papers on a variety of subjects connected with the work, investigations, or employments carried on by the officers of the Commission.

11. William Shaw Mason, the Secretary of the Commission, had interested himself in many movements connected with schemes for the improvement of Ireland, and in collecting statistics which might throw light on its condition, and the means of ameliorating it. The papers connected with this work were found here.

12. Chief among his labours was his scheme for a "Statistical Survey or Parochial Account of Ireland" in 1813. The idea was suggested by the success of Sir John Sinclair's Survey of Scotland, which was based on returns obtained from the parish clergy throughout that country. Mr. Mason conceived the idea of bringing together a similar exhaustive account of Ireland, and in 1813 formed a small committee to carry out the scheme. He addressed repeated circulars to the clergy of the Established Church asking for their assistance, and furnishing them with sample surveys for their guidance in describing their own parishes.

It appears that descriptions of about 150 parishes were received in response to his appeals. Mr. Mason published three volumes of these Reports or Surveys in 1814, 1816, and 1819, respectively.

Printed image digitised by the University of Southampton Library Digitisation Unit

Some of these reports are of much interest and contain matter of great value for the local and social history of the country. No further volumes were published, although on examination and arrangement of the papers it appears that seventy-four unpublished memoirs remained in hands. Most of these are brief and contain little of value, but several are of considerable interest. These are now for the first time made available to students. The original papers relating to the published memoirs, too, occasionally contain matter not included in the printed survey; or furnish correspondence, consequent on the publication, which may prove of local interest.

14. More or less intimately connected with the Parochial Survey, are a collection of Returns relative to the crops in 1816. The harvest in this year was deficient, and fears were entertained of a famine. In the absence of any official organisation capable of ascertaining the actual condition of the harvest, Mr. Mason conceived the idea of utilising his relations with the Clergy to procure local returns of the condition and produce of the crops throughout Ireland. The returns received, and abstracts of the results are now transferred.

15. Under an Act of 1812 (52 Geo. III., c. 133) Mr. Mason was authorised to take steps for the first official Census of Ireland in 1813. The practical difficulties in the way proved very considerable; and the machinery provided by the Act was quite inefficient. The execution of the Act locally was placed in the charge of the several Grand Juries, but as the Act did not make their action compulsory, the Grand Juries of some counties took no action at all. Grave doubts, too, were cast on the accuracy of many of the enumerators who being in some counties paid per head of population, were sometimes believed to have taken very little care to secure the accuracy of their figures.

16. Sect. 4 of the Act required that the original accounts of the proceedings of those making the formal returns should be deposited and preserved in the office of the Clerk of the Peace, or Town Clerk of the County or Town to which they belong. From these detailed accounts, returns were to be prepared in a specified form, verified by attestation before Justices of the Peace and forwarded to the Castle.

17. The original returns for one county—Wicklow—are now transferred, those of the other counties which made returns having been removed to the Record Office some years ago. The information is very meagre. The figures contained in the returns of some counties are also entered in a book. Some small volumes of abstracts contain summaries—Barony totals—of the other counties from which returns were received.

18. The incompleteness of these returns would have been of little moment, if the Clerks of the Peace had, as required by the Act, preserved the original enumeration accounts. Unfortunately among the Peace Office records as yet received in the Record Office, those from the County Dublin alone contain these detailed accounts.

19. One great difficulty in securing accurate information about the country was the absence of any general survey, or view of the topography of the country. This Mr. Mason endeavoured in some measure to obviate by obtaining from the county Treasurers, lists of the Parishes and Townlands in each Barony. These lists with the other papers connected with proceedings under the Population Act of 1812 have been removed to the Record Office.

20. While the official efforts to obtain an accurate record of the population produced such poor results, private effort had already shown what admirable results could be produced by earnestness and devotion. In 1798, the Rev. James Whitelaw, taking advantage of the inquiries made in connexion with the regulations for the police check on the population of the city of Dublin, made a careful and almost exhaustive census of the city. His work is fully described in Whitelaw and Walsh's History of Dublin, App. pp. v. and vi. A manuscript copy of this census and survey of the city has been found in the Tower. It is bound in two large folio volumes. Having no lettering or heading describing it, its origin had been forgotten. It has now been identified and transferred to Record Office. Each street is given in detail, the occupier or proprietor of each house, with the numbers of male and female inhabitants of the upper classes, servants, and lower classes respectively. The houses are given in their order, and as all intersecting streets and lanes are carefully indicated, the houses can in most cases be identified with certainty.

21. Mr. Mason was anxious to add in several ways to the meagre information obtained by the census. Among others, he conceived the idea of obtaining some data as to the relative numbers of the principal religious bodies. His relations with the clergy, formed not only through his efforts towards the

Parochial Survey, but also in his capacity of Secretary to the Board of First Fruits, led him to apply to the clergy of the Established Church for such information as they could give. He applied to the Presbyterian clergy for statistics of their congregations, and appears to have taken some preliminary steps towards addressing the clergy of the Roman Catholic Church. A large number of returns were obtained from the clergy of the Established and Presbyterian Churches. They contain only the supposed numbers of families of each principal religion, and the estimated numbers of individuals based on an assumed average number of a family. These returns with some books of abstracts have been transferred.

22. Mr. Mason was not satisfied with the imperfect results of these early statistical efforts, and in 1819, with the assistance of some friends, prepared a model Statistical Survey and Census of the Barony of Portnahinch, Queen's County. This contains practically all the information contained in the more recent censuses, with the addition of what is supplied by the modern Agricultural Returns. This work was successfully completed, and a copy presented to King George IV. on his visit in 1821. The papers connected with this work have now been arranged and transferred.

23. The failure of the attempt to secure a complete Census of Ireland under the Act of 1812, were soon obvious; and an Act was passed so early as 1815 (55 Geo. III., c. 120), giving directions for the taking anew of a Census, and providing more effectual machinery for giving it effect.

24. The agents in the new machinery were the Chairman and Bench of Magistrates of each county. Though no actual steps towards taking the Census were made until 1821, measures were at once set on foot to place the Central Organization under Mr. Mason in communication with the county magistrates. Lists of these were accordingly asked for and revised from time to time until 1821.

25. At the beginning of the year 1821, Special Sessions were held in each county as provided by the Act of 1815, at which enumerators were appointed for every parish in Ireland. To test the capacity of these enumerators, Mr. Mason required them to make preliminary returns. These give the names of the parishes in each enumerator's district, and the names and addresses of the clergy of every denomination and of the school-masters resident in the district. These returns and the subsequent correspondence with enumerators and county authorities form a considerable collection which have now been removed. The enumerators' final returns, which specify, under parishes, and townlands or streets, the names and age of each person, were copied into books under the supervision of the Clerks of the Peace, and returned to the Tower, whence, in 1869, they were transferred to the Record

Office. When received in the Tower, the books were placed in the hands of a staff of clerks who abstracted and tabulated the results. The papers connected with this work are now removed.

26. To aid apparently in identification of names, Mr. Mason obtained copies of the printed Freeholders' Lists prepared from time to time by the Clerks of the Peace of the several counties. These have been arranged and transferred.

27. A private Act (5 George IV., c. cxviii.), provided for the Valuation of Houses in Dublin, and the more equal payment of Local Taxes. In 1826 a Commission issued for the Valuation of the houses in the city. The papers of this Commission have now been removed to Record Office. They comprise schedules of all houses, in each street, with preliminary and final valuation; appeals against the amount of individual valuation arranged in streets; the streets arranged alphabetically; some special classes of appeals, as those in cases of breweries and distilleries; and letters.

28. The following papers belonging to the Privy Council or classed with the Council papers in the Catalogue published by the Record Commissioners have also been arranged and transferred to Record Office.

29. Draft Letters transmitting Bills, 1735-1800. (Record Commissioners Reports, vol. II., p. 244). These are the original drafts of letters which the Irish Council sent to the English Privy Council recommending the approval of the Parliamentary Bills which were to be returned as transmisses to be read and passed by the Irish Parliament. The letters state the object of the Bill, the circumstances of its introduction or preparation, and the reasons for its adoption.

30. Abstracts of business done in Council, 1773-81. Brief notes of matters brought before the Privy Council, and how they were disposed of.

31. Accounts of the Ballast Office, 1713-83. (Rec. Com. Rep., II., p. 229.)

35. Forms of Prayer, 1778-1803. Printed forms of church services for use on days set apart for Prayer or Thanksgiving on certain special occasions.

They have been arranged and transferred, for insertion in the collection and Index of such papers as are already in the Record Office.

37. Among the papers of the Chief Secretary's Office transferred were 14 bundles of Lord Lieutenant's Warrants for appointments to Archbishoprics, Bishoprics, and Deaneries, and for presentation to Church livings. The Warrants are entered in the Warrant Books. They are preliminary to the issue of letters patent, which are entered in the Patent Rolls.

Sorting and Arrangement of Records.

90. The re-arrangement of the Chancery Bills have been steadily proceeded with and completed for the period from 1582 to 1800, making 14,287 fasciculi, which have been arranged in 2,041 bundles covered with brown paper. The series of Bills and Answers of the Palatinate Court of Tipperary, 1691–1715, containing 189 fasciculi, have been arranged in twenty-seven bundles. Progress has also been made with the Chancery Answers, working backward from 1867, and the Answers from 1820 to 1867 have been arranged and turned from 5,698 into 814 covered bundles. The experience of the change up to date has been most satisfactory, the documents being much more accessible, and kept absolutely free from dust and practically from decay.

Appendix I.

Early Rolls of Judicial Proceedings.

The examination of the earlier rolls of Judicial Proceedings (26th Report, p. 54) has been completed.

The principal collection is that of the Plea Rolls removed from the Record Tower. A catalogue of these was published by the Record Commissioners in the Supplement to their 8th Report (1819), pp. 79–125. This catalogue describes 514 "Plea Rolls," 79 "Miscellaneous Plea Rolls," and 40 "Fragments of Plea Rolls." There was no very obvious reason for making a distinction between the two former classes; while the "Fragments of Plea Rolls" are often less fragmentary than some of the "Plea Rolls."

The rolls catalogued by the Record Commission in 1819 were unhappily not all forthcoming when they came to be transferred to the Record Office in 1869. At the latter date the following rolls included by the Record Commissioners in 1819 had disappeared: Plea Rolls Nos. 11, 12, 155, 162, 244, 245, 248, 250, 252, 286, 349, 350, 362, 373, 375, 380; Miscellaneous Plea Rolls 14; Fragments of Plea Rolls 7, 8, 12, 17, 19, 21.

As to the fate of these missing rolls only one clue has been found here. Among the Plea Roll collection is a small parcel labelled "Rolls purchased at Ferguson's sale, 1857," referring to the late antiquary and record expert Mr. James Ferguson. This bundle contained a few membranes of parchment, chiefly skins and portions of skins of Plea Rolls. On examination, 12 of these skins were found to belong to one of the missing rolls, and one skin to another of them. These skins have been restored to their places in the collection as No. 162 (Justiciary Roll, 4° Ed. III.), and No. 11 (Banco Roll, 18 Ed. I.). The roll to which the 12 skins belong, contained when catalogued by the Record Commissioners 29 skins. They evidently came into James Ferguson's hands as detached skins, for a list of them in his handwriting, and found with them, implies that he was unaware that they belonged to the same roll. This fact, with the presence among them of an isolated skin of another roll, makes it probable that the missing rolls, or some of them, have been broken up.

Some of the entries in the Catalogue of the Record Commissioners do not represent what can properly be called Rolls. No. 124 has no existence. It is merely a re-entry of No. 114. No. 333 is not a distinct roll but only the last skin of No. 332. Several are only mixed skins of different rolls. Such are those numbered as Miscellaneous Plea Rolls Nos. 33, 55, 73, 74, 75. Others had one or more detached skins of other rolls put up with them as Nos. 165, 212, Misc. P. R., 18. Some of the so-called rolls are simply bundles of Pleadings or Writs.

A few are rolls of the Exchequer. They are Nos. 20, 70, 389, 452, 454, 460, Misc. P. R. 76.

The Fragments of Plea Rolls were found in many cases to be portions of existing rolls. These have been restored to their places. Those fragments which belong to rolls of which no more is preserved, are separately referred to in the annexed catalogue.

Detached skins and fragments have been identified and replaced with the following rolls:—Plea Rolls Nos. 3, 19, 36, 54, 59, 60, 65, 77, 140, 152, 165, 196, 198, 200, 206, 220, 267, 273, 288, 317, 347, 355, 408, 465, 480, 489, 490, 497, 500, 505, 512; Misc. Plea Rolls 17, 20, 22, 24, 25, 30, 34, 37, 38, 42, 44, 46, 50, 57, 61, 68.

Printed image digitised by the University of Southampton Library Digitisation Unit

The only important find not connected with the Plea Roll system was the old wrapper of Misc. P. R. No. 69, which was found to be an original Inquisition post mortem of 16° Richard II., taken on the death of John fitz Milo le Courcy. This has been put up as number 1 of the Chancery Inquisitions, Co. Cork. It is the earliest original inquisition preserved here.

In completing the examination of the more scattered and fragmentary portion of the collection, several portions of early rolls were met with which should have been included among the rolls catalogued in the 26th Report.

These supplementary fragments are as follow:—

The following catalogue has been framed as a continuation of the List printed in the Appendix to the 26th Report.

Section I. carries on the Justiciary Rolls to 18° Richard II., when that king first visited Ireland. Until this time the heading of the rolls of proceedings of the Chief Bench ran in the form "Coram A. B. Justiciario Hiberniæ." In the presence of the king this form naturally gave way to "Coram Rege," as on the rolls of the King's Court in England. This form, once introduced, was, in accordance with the English practice, continued permanently in Ireland after the king's departure. For the remaining rolls therefore the name Coram Rege has been adopted as in England. As before, the rolls of the Court were still kept in two divisions, I (a.) containing the general Placita, chiefly civil suits, and I (b.) the Placita Coronæ or Crown Rolls—the entries of criminal proceedings, or of those affecting the King's Peace, and his rights.

Besides these two principal divisions of rolls are some minor classes; Recognizance Rolls from 26° Hen. VI.; Rolls of Attorney from 23° Elizabeth; and some miscellaneous rolls and files, chiefly for the reign of Elizabeth.
